1. On this date, having discussed the matter with Mr. [ ] Chief, FI/GI, and [ ] Deputy Director of Security, I called [ ] at his home to advise him of the status of his compensation claim and also to give him some information concerning a letter which he had sent to the Agency requesting guidance, from a security standpoint, as to what he could tell to prospective employers about his employment with this Agency and its predecessor organizations.

2. [ ] appeared to be in a much better mood than when I talked with him on 12 April. Although he reiterated his financial problems, his conversational tone was mild and his general demeanor almost pleasant. I advised [ ] that the additional information requested by the Bureau of Employees' Compensation (BEC) had been obtained by us after considerable digging and that the entire package was now ready to go to BEC. I also indicated to him that [ ] had taken a personal interest in his case and was doing everything within his power to push it along. He appeared gratified by this and asked that I give his best to Larry Houston and [ ]

4. With respect to the letter, I advised [ ] that an Agency representative would visit him, presumably within the next week, to sit down with him and discuss the problem he was encountering in giving employment history information to prospective employers and to advise him and guide him as to what he could or should not say concerning his employment with us. [ ] had agreed to have a Security Office representative see [ ] He appeared quite satisfied with this arrangement. He said it had become necessary for him to hold off certain job prospects because he had been pressed for information which he was afraid he could not or should not provide.
